

Cover sheet for BIOS0030 Group Investigation and Report

Please complete this declaration, and add details of the userID you entered when completing the tests (so that I can cross-check participation).

We declare that:

i) the work submitted is our own work only except where acknowledged, in accordance with the UCL Academic integrity guidance

<https://www.ucl.ac.uk/students/exams-and-assessments/academic-integrity>

ii) we have acknowledged any usage of AI tools below

Note for this investigation use of AI tools are acceptable as an aid when writing and developing code (but where a large section of code was adapted from an AI tool or internet source this should be acknowledged as a comment by the relevant section)

For the investigation write up AI Tools may not be used to generate text that forms part of the submission, but may be used in accordance with the UCL guidelines with an appropriate acknowledgement

<https://www.ucl.ac.uk/students/exams-and-assessments/assessment-success-guide/engaging-ai-your-education-and-assessment>

<https://library-guides.ucl.ac.uk/referencing-plagiarism/acknowledging-AI>

Group Number	11
Group Members	Szymon Lic	Joanna Mao	Kwanhwi Lee	Jan Uher
Anonymous user_ID (used when completing tests online)	MGRG	AXYZ		JUBW

Declaration of AI Usage:

Large Language AI Models (LLMs) "ChatGPT 3.5, ChatGPT 4.0 and custom ChatGPT4.0-based models (so-called GPTs) developed by OpenAI Global, LLC were used extensively throughout this work. The aid included:

- Aid in syntax correction and fixing errors in the code.
- Aid in finding appropriate solutions and code design ideas.
- Aid in code annotation and pseudocode generation for better readability.
-

Simultaneously, we declare that to the best of our knowledge, we adhered to the UCL guidelines on AI usage. No large parts of the code were developed by AI, nor any part of the report writeup is authored by the AI.